The Combined Strength of Windhover Information and Medtech Insight

Delivering unmatched information and intelligence to the global healthcare products industry

The combination of Windhover Information and Medtech Insight delivers unmatched information and intelligence to the global healthcare products industry. Together, we are the world's most authoritative provider of the information services you need to make better, more-informed and ultimately more-successful business decisions. We are your single source for premier newsletters, magazines, reports, databases, investor conferences, partnering events, audio conferences, custom research and consulting. We serve every part of your organization, from senior executives to business development groups to sales and marketing professionals, to scientists and technologists.

Medtech Insight Products and Services

Medtech Insight provides business information and intelligence on new trends, technologies and companies in the medical device, diagnostics, and biotech marketplace. As described in this catalog, we offer a broad range of products and services for medical technology executives, including:

- The Medtech Insight Monthly Newsletter
- Medical Technology Investment & Partnering Conferences
- Market & Technology Reports
- Custom Research Services
- EU I.Q.* European Healthcare Data

The global healthcare marketplace is in constant flux, raising ever-more-challenging questions for all involved. Keeping up to date on market trends and competitor activity is key to the success of your business venture. Medtech Insight can help guide you through this dynamic marketplace, and help your company evolve and implement successful strategies for future growth.

Windhover Information Products and Services

Together with Medtech Insight, representing one of the most powerful information resources in the life sciences industry

IN VIVO: The Business & Medicine Report

Unlike simple news-oriented publications, IN VIVO cuts through industry "noise" to deliver real insight into competitors' strategies, market trends, technologies and the deals that are redefining the healthcare landscape, with coverage from biopharma to devices to convergence and more. Every issue offers a powerful competitive advantage when formulating business development strategies. IN VIVO is read by more than 10,000 senior medical industry executives and leading industry observers. And now IN VIVO is even better: Redesigned to be more accessible and allow easy identification of articles crucial to business, it features more and improved graphics to unlock complex issues, trends and statistics. 11 issues/year, available in Print, Print + PDF, or Print, PDF + complete online 11-year archive.

START-UP: Windhover's Review of Emerging Medical Ventures

Start-Up is a unique journal of health industry start-ups, featuring hard-to-find data and insight you can use to plan your business strategy and stay well ahead of the curve, including in-depth analyses of the most promising medical technologies and the strategies that will enable you to capitalize on them; objective, probing profiles of the hottest new product areas and companies including a full assessment of each company's technology, potential market, management team (complete with contact information), business model and prospects of reaching key milestones; under-the-radar tech transfer licensing; and expert coverage of financing, IPO and dealmaking trends with their impact on the prospects for medical start-ups.

11 issues/year, available in Print, Print + PDF, or Print, PDF + complete online 10-year archive.

Medical Technology Investment & Partnering Conferences

Invest, Partner, and Network at our "Investment In Innovation (In³): A Preview of Early-Stage Medical Technology Companies" Conferences and Specialty Events

These events highlight emerging technologies being developed by small, mostly privately held medical technology companies seeking strategic partners and/or investment. Each meeting features between 30 and 90 innovative, hand-selected presenting companies, and draws an attendance of hundreds of senior executives from the investment community and major medical technology, biopharmaceutical, biotech and other companies.

Coverage includes presentations on a range of advanced technologies and clinical areas, including: cardiovascular diagnostics and therapeutics, clinical diagnostics, biomaterials and biotechnology, critical care, drug delivery, endoscopy and laparoscopy, image-guided surgery, imaging, infection control, interventional radiology, neurology and neurosurgery, oncology, orthopedics and spine, pain management, patient monitoring, regenerative medicine, respiratory care, urology and wound management, among many others.

Who should attend:

- Established medical product companies seeking technology through licensing, partnering and acquisition to broaden or deepen product lines or build sector strength
- Venture capital and investment bankers
- Medical device, biotech, biopharmaceutical or other company executives seeking insight into emerging medical technologies

Read what past presenters and attendees are saying about our conferences: www.medtechinsight.com/in3success.html

Over 6,000 senior executives have attended and over 700 companies have presented at our conferences, making them one of the most successful networking and partnering events in the medical device industry — register to attend today and tap into the opportunities about to emerge in the medical industry marketplace!
